The NYPD is investigating a viral video of a Brooklyn officer choking a young woman during a mugging incident. The video was posted online on Monday and shows an officer hitting a woman in the head, while an accomplice is watching. According to NYPD, the victim was robbed at gunpoint in the street, when her purse was stolen. One of the suspects allegedly held her by the throat. The officer was assigned to the 86th Precinct's Emergency Services Unit and was reportedly on patrol. He and his partner were called to the scene but due to the video, the NYPD is looking into whether charges will be filed. The incident took place last Friday night in East New York, Brooklyn. Q: How to wait for outbox? I'm trying to wait for the outbox to become available for sending messages, but I'm unable to get it done. The outbox queue has to be empty to make a new transaction, but even after requesting a transaction from the server, the outbox still is full. curl -X POST \ -H "Content-Type: application/json" \ -d '{ "sender": "user@domain.com", "to": ["user@otherdomain.com", "user@otherdomain.com"], "subject": "subject", "body": "body" }' \ -H "Authorization: Bearer foo bar" \ -k \ A: The Outbox queue has to be empty to make a new transaction Not true. Your transaction can be processed even if the outbox is not empty. If it has been accepted by the server and is ready to be processed, it can be processed right away without waiting for it to be cleared. But this is not necessarily the case for every type of transaction. The typical use case is that a user wants to send a transaction that requires a free outbox slot. In this case, the request will be queued until the appropriate outbox is available
